Indies Nine Plan Season

A meeting was held last week at the home of Bob and George Hanson to talk over the coming season for the Grayling Independent Baseball team who last year swept through the season to the North Central League championship and then topped it off by taking the play off championship as well.

Elmer Kellogg was named as manager for this year's Grayling club. It was also announced that Tony Buron had purchased an entire new catcher outfit and presented it to the team. At the conclusion of the meeting, home movies were screened in which Grayling's championship nine appeared in action.

Work was started this week by the players on a new backdrop and new dugouts at the ball field. Workouts are expected to get under way next week Tuesday. The team will again play in the North Central League which will be comprised of the same teams: Grayling, Roscommon, Mio, Fairview, Comins and Houghton Lake. At a league meeting held last week in Roscommon, last year's president Carl Nass and Secretary Al Cherven were re-elected and Willard Cornell of Grayling was named vice president. The next league meeting is scheduled for Luzerne in May when it will be discussed as to expanding the league to eight members instead of the present six teams.

Brake Checkup Program Result

Chief George Bielski today announced the results of the first week's Brake and Light Check Program. During the week 26 motorists were stopped for committing traffic violations and the brakes of their cars were checked by the officers.

Seven of these were found to be in a dangerous and illegal condition. During the same period, 18 lights were found to be defective. These defects could easily have resulted in a traffic accident if a driving emergency had developed, according to Chief Bielski. Steps have been taken to have these unsafe equipment items repaired, he stated.

Chief Bielski called upon all motorists to take their cars to their regular service man for a thorough check-up. It is the legal responsibility of every motorist to maintain his or her vehicle in safe operating condition, he emphasized.

"Cancer Can Be Cured"

"Talking about cancer will not cure it but may bring a patient to a physician in time to be cured," Mrs. Van Smith, Crawford County Commander for the American Cancer Society, said today.

That is why eighteen thousand volunteers of the American Cancer Society in Michigan talk about cancer the year around.

Those who talk cancer most effectively are some who themselves are cured cancer cases and can say from their own personal experience, "Early Cancer Can Be Cured."

Joe Matel of Muskegon, Mrs. Orrie Williams of Freeland, Mrs. Van Smith of Grayling, and Mrs. M. L. Hones of Dowagiac have all had cancer and been cured of it from six to fourteen years. They are now in good health and fine spirits, dedicated to saving lives from cancer.

Joe Matel is the friendly field representative of the Michigan Division of the Cancer Society. He sought medical help in 1934 and his chin shows a slight scar where the cancer cells were removed through surgery. Now Joe spends his days and many of his evenings, too, covering the state on educational missions, showing films, distributing leaflets, working with county units.

"When anyone asks me whether cancer is really curable," Matel says, "I can point to myself as Exhibit A. Time was when that startled people. Now they've learned that the disease is not catching and that it is nothing of which to be ashamed."

In Saginaw County the Freeland branch of the American Cancer Society is headed by Mrs. Orrie Williams. Ten years ago she was operated upon for cancer. "I accomplish my best work," Mrs. Williams says, "by telling people frankly that I am a cured cancer case. The more we talk cancer the more people will be saved."

While Crawford County may be better known for its hunting and winter sports than for cancer control, the work sponsored by the Federation of Women's Clubs is excellent, and each spring the unit raises its quota of cancer funds. Mrs. Van Smith was treated surgically for cancer in 1941. This year, because of her deep interest in the subject, she volunteered to (Continued on Page Three)

Dancing Party Marks Birthday Celebration

The Grange Hall was the scene of a lovely formal party on Saturday evening, April 9, when Miss Joyce Hoerl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hoerl celebrated her 18th birthday.

Sandwiches, cupcakes, punch and coffee were served at tables spread with white clothes and laid with pastel colored dishes. Tall blue tapers in crystal holders also graced the tables.

Chaperons were Miss Hoerl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Bidvia and Miss Wanda Mikrut. The ladies were presented with corsages and the men with carnation boutonnieres.

Every one had a wonderful time and Miss Joyce received many lovely and useful gifts as well as best wishes of all for many more happy birthdays.

What's Your Opinion?

In our opinion, 70 per cent of the volume of business done in Crawford County is traceable to the game and fish life which attracts the tourist, hunters and fishermen. New House Bill No. 364 which will soon be acted on by the Michigan House of Representatives proposes to give the Conservation Department discretionary power over the deer herds in this State. Should the Conservation Department be given this power, it is well known that they intend to declare open seasons on antlerless deer. This means the killing off of both does and fawns. It is our sincere belief that our game and fish life belongs to the citizens of this State and not to the hunters and fishermen alone, therefore before such important legislation is acted upon, a vote by our citizens should be the deciding factor. At least, House Bill 364 should be amended to make it optional with each county as to whether the bill shall be operative in the County.

In order to secure an expression from the citizens of Crawford County as to how they feel on this important proposal, we ask that you fill out the coupon vote below and mail or leave it at the office of the Crawford County Avalanche, at once. There is no time to lose.

Crawford County Avalanche, Grayling, Michigan.

Do you favor House Bill 364 which allows the opening of season on does and fawns?

Yes or No

Do you favor amending House Bill 364 making it optional with each county whether the season shall be opened on does and fawns within the County?

Yes or No

Burke Named Mayor Pro-Tem

A. L. Roberts who was returned to the office of Councilman of the City of Grayling by a overwhelming majority in the Spring Biennial Election, was named Mayor unanimously at the Council's organizational meeting last Monday evening.

Mayor Roberts has a record of nearly 20 years on the Grayling City Council. He resigned as a member of the Council in April, 1940, after a long term as a member, due to a position that he took which would keep him out of the city most of the time. In November, 1947, he was appointed to the Council to fill the post of the late Mayor Edwin Carlson. He was re-elected to the post by the voters of the city this month with 392 votes with George Burke the nearest to him with 126 ballots.

Burke was re-named Mayor Pro-Tem at the Monday night session. Councilman Burke has held a council seat for 12 years, 10 of which he served as Mayor of the City. He was first elected to the Council in April, 1937, and at the following organizational meeting was named Mayor. He held this post for the next 10 years, until April 1947, when Edwin Carlson was named Mayor at the organizational meeting of the Council that spring. Burke was named Mayor Pro-Tem at that same session and was re-named to the post Monday night.

Russian Shifting

The recent shifts of key men within the Soviet government have stirred up an apparent endless discussion as to whether this may be the prelude to some dramatic new tangent in Kremlin policy. The iron curtain is so opaque that no one can answer that with certainty at this distance. However, the experts, after mulling over all the available facts and guesses, have generally come to the conclusion that the changes stem from perfectly logical reasons, which has a relatively small influence on the relations of Russia with the West.

The most important change was the supplementing of Molotov with Vishinsky as Foreign Minister. The easy conclusion was that Molotov was in disgrace, and would disappear from public life as Litvinoff did years ago. But Molotov remains a member of the Politburo, which is infinitely more important than any cabinet post. So it can logically be argued that Stalin decided he could be of more value if kept at home. It wouldn't surprise experts if he was made Premier before long.

The key to the whole business may be found in conditions within the Soviet Union and her satellite states. Things aren't going as well as the Communists want. The difficulties with Tito have provided the most publicized example of this. But what is happening in Yugoslavia is also happening, though in a different way and on a smaller scale, in Hungary, Bulgaria and elsewhere. The Soviet-dominated governments are experiencing trouble in bringing the peasants into line.

Furthermore, it looks as if the Kremlin is far from satisfied with its own people's ideological fervor. U. S. News puts it this way: "The old idea was that the elite of the Communist Party which has only 6,000,000 members in a country of about 210,000,000 people, would have faith in Communist ideology and execute the orders. Now the Politburo has ordered a tremendous campaign of missionary work that is designed to sell the idea of complete faith in the eventual triumph of Communism to the whole of the Russian people."

Writes its Owner's Biography!

White sidewall tires available at additional cost.

IT SEEMS SAFE to say that there is no material possession which speaks more eloquently of the man who owns it than a Cadillac car.

Wherever it is driven, it offers authentic testimony as to its owner's good taste—his concern for the safety and comfort of his family and friends—and his general standing in the field of endeavor in which he has chosen to make his contribution to the world's affairs.

Indeed, if a complete list were published of those who own and drive this distinguished car—it would be obvious that it has become a hallmark of achievement in almost every walk of life.

That this should have happened is entirely logical—for Cadillac cars have been built, for almost half a century, to the most uncompromising standards of excellence. As a result, Cadillac stands alone in all the things that make a motor car a distinction to possess and a pleasure to utilize.

The 1949 Cadillac is the grandest of them all, in every way. Why not visit our showrooms and see for yourself? You are welcome at any time.

Program Subject To Change

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

There'll Always Be a "Gawker"

"Harry the Hermit," as he's called, came into town last week and, as usual, caused quite a stir. He looks like a cross between Santa Claus and Daniel Boone.

We had a friendly glass of beer together and I asked him, "Don't you ever get annoyed at the way some people laugh and stare as you go by?" "Shucks no," Harry says. "Only while they're laughin' at me, I'm feelin' a mite sorry for them. Imagine—folks so ungrateful they can't see I'm really just the same as they are underneath."

From where I sit, Harry's a lot more "civilized" than the people who make fun of him. He's contented, lives the way he believes is right without harming anyone—and what's more, he's tolerant of others whose tastes in living are different from his.

Maybe we all don't look the same, or act the same, or eat or drink the same, but in a free country, why should we?

The Young Old Folks

By Matthew F. Christopher

"THERE!" Dave said. "The ceiling's finished. Now you've got new stairs, new walls in the living room and bedrooms, and a new porch." He lifted his chin defiantly, and something like a cold glint entered his brown eyes as he gazed down at his mother. "Anything else you going to do?"

Drusilla glanced at him warily, clutched his arm. "Dave!" She sounded so weak, like a child.

His mother stared up at him with a soft flame burning in her cheeks. She was so short, thought Drusilla, so small against her son. "Why? What's the matter? Dad and I—we were talking about putting in a new kitchen floor, too."

Dave shook his head. "There you go! Ever since you bought this place that's all you and Dad have been doing—fixing and fixing. For a couple of old people you're certainly throwing your money around."

"I'm only fifty-five," said his father solemnly, puffing quietly on an old, black-bowled pipe.

"Dave laughed dryly. 'Well? Don't you think that's getting along?'"

After lunch he took a nap, and Drusilla sneaked quietly out of the kitchen door and started back across the field to Mother and Dad Parsell's.

"I didn't have anything to do," she explained, "so I thought I'd come back and visit awhile. Dave's sleeping. Mother said you're going to put in a new kitchen floor. What kind? Oak?"

"Oh, no. Mother did not mean that. We just want to san' the old floor, then put on inlaid linoleum."

She left soon, for fear Dave would get up and not find her there.

"When he woke there was still time for supper and Drusilla suggested a little ride through the country."

"The road down toward the lake," she said. "We haven't seen the Acklings so long! And Mrs. Ackling has been so sweet to me!"

"OH, DRUSILLA— and Dave! It's so good to see you!"

"Come around the house. John is back there, working on the terrace."

They followed her. Drusilla stopped and stared surprisedly at the var-colored flagstones that made up the terrace. At one corner, which was not quite finished, a white-haired figure dabbled with a trowel. He looked up, his red face crinkled in a smile. "Well!" he exclaimed. "Look who's here! How are you, Drusilla? Dave?"

"You're both looking so young."

"Dave had hurt them. She could see that in the soft tears in their eyes, and their mouths that hung, limply at the corners."

"You make me feel old! How's the folks, Dave?"

"The road down toward the lake," she said. "We haven't seen the Acklings so long! And Mrs. Ackling has been so sweet to me!"

"Good. Mr. Ackling, thanks— 'Doing any more on that house of theirs?'"

"Some. Just finished—"

"Mrs. Ackling!" Drusilla exclaimed. "What's that down below here? A flower bed? Oh it's beautiful! Dave, look!"

After work the next day she saw Dave drive past the house, and from the back door she saw him stop at his mother's.

She waited for the sound of the car's motor to start up again, for he should be coming home to eat. Minutes went by. What was Dave doing?

She heard the motor. She stared at the car, waiting for it to move. Suddenly, she realized it wasn't the car. And then, hurriedly, she ripped off a sheet of wax paper covered the food on the table, and started running across the field to Mother and Dad Parsell's.

When she peered through the door of the kitchen, the noise that came from within was so loud she could barely think. But she could see Mother Parsell sweeping one side of the old floor that was slowly changed to new, her round, rosy cheeks puffed up in a smile. And Dad Parsell, his mild, contented face in the center of his own smoke fog, holding an electric cord, so that Dave wouldn't run it over with the sander.

Grayling. We did not know the first school was where the Grayling Mercantile Store is being taken down. We did not know there had been three Fish Hatchery Buildings. We have found many things of interest and if any one has old pictures we could paste in our scrap book we will be pleased to have them. Different children have chosen things to write about and get all available material on. These reports are written and given on Thursday in our class. This report and any pictures collected are put in our book to leave in the Fourth Grade room. The front of the book has a picture of our school and on the first page is a picture of the pupils of this year's fourth grade. Reports entered so far are:

We still wish to write about the Marquette River, Hartwick Pines, Bear Archery, Kerry and Hanson, Flooring Co., the Bottling Co., and some of the older buildings including the churches.

This week we have been having a review in spelling, and the total number of words was 188. Those spelling them all correctly were Nancy Hosmer, Barbara Cornell, Kay Ann Parkinson, Clara Dixon and Robert Houghton. Several had only 2 to 5 wrong. We think this pretty good.

In Baseball Spelling the Tigers (girls) have the Lions (boys) on the run. This week the score was 8 to 1. The boys had better brush up on their spelling.

Letters To The Editor

Our Winter in Florida

As many of our friends may want to know something of our winter in Florida, I take this opportunity to write a little about this sunshine state. My cousin, Blanche Currey and I left Bay City January 11th arriving in Punta Gorda, Florida, the 13th. We went directly to our rooms which had been reserved for us. We enjoyed the warmth and sunshine and rested for a few days, but it required about ten days to get acclimated to the semi-tropical climate. Punta Gorda is located in the heart of the West Coast, on Charlotte Bay. It is a small city of about 3,000. A unique trailer park with a milelong fishing pier extends into the harbor. Boats are moored at the trailer doors. Channel bass, red snapper, snook or white sea bass, flounder, pompano red fish and mullett and many others, also crabs, oysters and shrimp are very plentiful. We attended a fish fry for tourists over 1,500 tourists attended the fry. Over 1,500 pounds of fish were served, 500 pounds of potato salad, 300 pounds of cabbage cold slaw, 1,100 gallons of coffee, plenty of hot rolls. The athletic field was well lighted and every one orderly and happy. Music and entertainment followed. Everyone seemed to have a good time. Punta Gorda has a commercial fishing industry, employing hundreds of people. Accommodations for swimming, boating, outings, golfing, movies, dancing please the younger set. Charlotte Harbor beach and the Gulf of Mexico are a delight for the tourists. There are many fresh water streams. We find fishermen angling from bridges piers and boats. A number of modern fishing and hunting lodges are operated in Charlotte County. Thousands of acres of land in the rural areas in the county are devoted to cattle production, we noticed many Brahman cattle (excellent for beef). Punta Gorda has excellent drinking water. Some of the fruits are oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit, tangerines, guava, avocados, sapsodillas, mangos, papaya and kumquats, with some banana trees also. The coconut palm tree is very plentiful also the stately Royal palm and Australian pines with long fringe like needles. Many kinds of large and beautiful trees to numerous to mention. Hundreds of varieties of flowers and birds, with the ever present mocking birds which imitates from fifteen to thirty-two varieties of song birds. Of course we visited Tampa, St. Petersburg, Sarasota, Fort Myers, Miami, Coral Gables, Miami Beach, Hollywood, Fort Lauderdale and other places, but for rest and quiet we liked Punta Gorda.

The Tamiami Trail and Dixie Highway converge at Punta Gorda, yes Charlotte County is accessible by land, by sea and by air. The climate is equable and agreeable. The southern people are kind, agreeable and likeable. We are well pleased with our winter vacation in Florida and will return to our homes, tanned, refreshed and stronger spiritually, mentally and bodily and with pleasant memories, yet for all that we love our home state Michigan, and are anxious to return home.

Mrs. Lulu Flagg, Frederic.
